

Separate Possession:

each has their own possession, so each has their own apostrophe

John's and Patty's clothes

Joint Possession:

they share the possession, so they share the apostrophe

John and Patty's house