

Read and Discover

The best new directors are competitors at the film festival.
They are nervous about the judges' decision.

Circle the boldfaced noun that tells more about who or what the subject is. Underline the boldfaced adjective that tells how the subject feels.

A predicate noun follows a linking verb and renames the subject. A predicate adjective follows a linking verb and describes the subject.

See Handbook Section 11

Part 1

Circle each boldfaced word that is a predicate noun. Underline each boldfaced word that is a predicate adjective. Draw a box around the linking verb in each sentence.

1. Film festivals are popular with Hollywood producers.
2. Founded in 1932, the Venice Film Festival is the oldest.
3. The Cannes Film Festival is famous.
4. Other festival locations are Moscow, London, and Berlin.
5. The newer Sundance Film Festival is important, too.
6. Park City, Utah, is the location of the Sundance Film Festival.
7. One of the festival's biggest premieres was Hoop Dreams.
8. The heroes of that movie are two boys in Chicago's inner city.
9. They are basketball stars in high school.
10. They feel hopeful about making it to the National Basketball Association someday.
11. Robert Redford is the founder of the Sundance Film Festival.
12. A film festival in Chicago is a children's festival.
13. Many festivals are competitions.
14. The best movie at the festival is the winner.