

Lesson 25 Circle each compound personal pronoun.

1. Shawn and I made ourselves a pizza for lunch.
2. Many people like pizza, but most never bake pizzas themselves.
3. I myself was surprised to see how easy it is.
4. Shawn dressed himself in an apron before starting to mix and knead the dough.
5. I gave myself the task of chopping up the vegetable toppings.
6. As we waited, the rising dough puffed itself into a big ball.
7. Shawn twirled the ball of dough in the air above himself to flatten it out.
8. We arranged toppings on the surface of the pizza, placing one mushroom by itself in the center.
9. The pizza was just the way we like it because we made it ourselves.
10. You should try it yourself sometime.
11. It's not very hard, but there is some work involved: pizzas don't make themselves.
12. Clear yourself a big area for kneading dough and slicing toppings.
13. A friend of mine got herself a special stone to cook pizzas on.
14. I myself don't think that's necessary.
15. Just find yourself a cookie sheet large and sturdy enough to hold the crust.

Lesson 26 Circle each possessive pronoun.

1. My dog is bigger than Lia's dog.
2. Hers is a tiny, yappy dog.
3. I don't like it as much as I like yours.
4. Mine is huge.
5. Most other dogs are afraid of my dog.
6. But he just wants to be their friend.
7. His tail thumps on the ground.
8. Soon the other dogs are wagging theirs.
9. Our neighborhood has lots of dogs in it.
10. Your dog is the nicest.
11. Lia's dog may be small, but have you seen her cat?
12. "Kitty" is bigger than both of my cats put together.
13. His fur puffs out in all directions.
14. That cat's enormous tail has stripes all down its length.
15. Some cats' meows sound strangely human, but his sound more like a lion's roar.

Name _____